Fish-Game Club Commend Action Of Supervisors

Protests Diversion of Water From the Creeks

Enthusiastic endorsement of action taken by the board of supervisors of this county to prevent the damming up, and diversion of water from Slate creek, Oil creek, Peters creek, Corte Madera creek, and other creeks tributory to Pescadero and Tunitas creek, was given by the San Mateo County Fish and Game Association at its meeting in San Mateo this week.

The opposition to the plans of certain interests now applying for permission from the Board of Public Works, division of water resources of the state, was made at the board of supervisors' meeting when a protest was made by George Dunn, coastside publisher. A resolution opposing the granting of the petition by the state office was passed by the board of supervisors.

It was this action by the supervisors which received the commendation of the fish and game club. The carrying out of the plan, it was stated, would result in the drying up of Pescadero creek, one of the important creeks on the coastside of the county.

At the same meeting reports were made on the success of the assiciation's campaign to have the Spring Valley watershed lands established as a permanent game refuge. At the request of the assiciation resolutions have been passed by numerous organizations including the San Francisco Downtown Association. A committee will present these petitions to the San Francisco board of supervisors in the near future.

San Mateo County To Be Subject Of Schooling Survey

Sacramento, Cal., Feb. 27(UP)—Rural schools in every section of California are to be the subject of a survey started by the State Department of Education, to determine if children in the farm regions are getting the educational opportunities they deserve.

Vierling Kersey, state superintendent of public instruction, says that ten California counties have been selected as the "testing ground" for this study. They include the mountain counties of Amador and Placer, the upper Sacramento Valley counties of Butte and Colusa, the San Joaquin Valley county of San Joaquin, coast counties of Sonoma, San Mateo and San Luis Obispo, and the southern counties of Kern and San Diego.

Information to be gathered includes distance of pupils' homes from schools, extent and quality of educational opportunities offered to rural children, provisions for overcoming distance handicaps, what is done to overcome lack of educational opportunities for handicapped children, to what extent non-attendance is due to distance from school, and at what periods in the pupil's life remoteness from school is a deterrent to his attendance.

Inquest Held Into Death of Prize Fighter

Mahan Death Called Accidental By Jury

A heated argument between Fred Winsor, manager for Fred (Dummy) Mahan, welterweight boxer, and Harry Abbott, air pilot, featured the inquest held in South San Francisco Tuesday, by Coroner J. C. McGovern, into the death of Mahan. Mahan had jumped from a plane piloted by Abbott from a height of 5000 feet in a parachute, the jump being made in an effort to restore the hearing of the boxer, who had been deaf and dumb since early childhood.

Through some circumstance, the parachute, designed by Abbott, failed to open and the boxer was instantly killed in his fall to the field below. At the inquest Winsor claimed that the death of Mahan was due to the faulty construction of the parachute. Abbott claimed that the parachute was properly designed, but that Mahan had become entangled in the cords and had pulled the rip cord too soon after leaving the plane.

The verdict rendered by the jury which listened to the argument of Abbott and Winsor as well as other evidence concerning the death of Mahan was: "Death was due to hemorrhage of the right lung and shock due to failure of parachute opening while dropping from aeroplane near city limits of San Bruno—accidental."

Superintendent Appointed For Mills Airport

Captain Roy Francis Named to Post By S. F.

Appointment of Capt. Roy Francis as the new superintendent of Mills Field was aproved this week by San Francisco supervisors, who also approved a salary of $500 a month, an advance of $200 over that of former Acting Superintendent Bartlett Stephens, resigned.

Confirmation came after a long Sheehy said the appointment of debate during which Supervisor McFrancis had been opposed by E. E. Mouton, formerly of Burlingame, federal aeronautical inspector of the local district.

Following the vote on the Francis appointment, Supervisor Frank R. Havenner moved that Mouton be subpoenaed to testify. Mouton has denied baking the statement to McSheehy, it was stated by Havenner.

BLAST WRECKS ATHERTON HOME

Gas escaping from a pipe in the basement of the home of H. R. Blair, Atherton, is blamed for a blast which almost wrecked the house Tuesday. Both Mr. and Mrs. Blair were in the house at the time, but escaped injury. Their two children, playing in the back yard, were thrown down by the force of the explosion.

The house was set on fire by the blast, but the prompt action of the fire department saved it from destruction. The windows were broken by the force of the blast and the furniture was hurled about the rooms.

Mr. and Mrs. Blair are members of well known Peninsula families. Mrs. Blair is the former Miss Catherine Sudden of the pioneer family of Menlo Park and Atherton. Blair is vice president of the Sudden Lumber company.

McEmery told Officers Mengel and Snider of the police department that he was driving south on the highway at about 35 miles per hour when the other car cut in ahead of him. Neither man was hurt.

On Journalism Exchange Club Given Address

Romance of Papers Told in Talk By Prof. Brown

The romance of journalism furnished the basis of an interesting talk Tuesday evening by Prof. Buford Brown, department of journalism of Stanford university, at the regular weekly meeting of the Redwood City Exchange Club.

Prof. Brown recounted numerous interesting incidents concerning the newspaper business and well-known editors of the past.

S. L. Netherton, of the Times-Gazette, was the chairman of the evening. An interesting feature of the meeting was the sale of copies of the "Bla-Bla," a little newspaper containing interesting and little-known facts concerning some of the club members. The proceeds of the sale of the paper were for the club's charity fund.

The weekly autobiographical talk was given by Harvey Connor. Talks were also made by Frank Griffin, J. M. Eva and Leonard Casanova.

The suit was filed by Paul Geragioli and Augusto Montini, contractors for services rendered in erecting buildings belonging to the motor company at South San Francisco on the Bayshore highway.

Airport Road At San Mateo To Be Rushed

City Secures Change In Order From Commission

Plans for a crossing over the Southern Pacific tracks to form an entrance to the Curtiss-Wright airport at Beresford were furthered this week by the reception by City Manager Earl P. Wilsey, of San Mateo, of an amendment to the order of the California State Railroad Commission which required the city of San Mateo to file with the railroad commission releases on all grade crossings from Nineteenth avenue to Broadway, Beresford Park, in exchange for the opening of Bell street across the tracks.

The amendment specifies that releases be required only from owners of the Curtiss-Wright San Mateo Airport property and from Bell Brothers, owners of a subdivision adjoining on the north.

The original order, stipulated in exchange for the opening of Bell street as an entrance into the airport, required that more than 100 owners be seen to secure the releases on the streets, said Wilsey.

The city petitioned for an amendment which has been granted by the commission under the order received. The releases will be signed within less than 90 days and work on the crossing is planned to be under way as soon as men and material can be put on the ground. The crossing will be equipped with a wigwag and bell signal.

Mr. Elbert Dick, superintendent of the electrical department of the city of Redding, paid a visit to City Manager A. E. Rolison here yesterday. Mr. Rolison was formerly city manager of Redding.

The buildings were erected between July and October in 1929, and the company has only paid $1000 to date for the work, the complaint alleges. The contractors ask the court to sell the buildings and the land on which they stand, and that the proceeds be applied to the sum owing the plaintiffs. J. W. Coleberd of South San Francisco is the attorney.

Keep Your Credit Good

EDITORIAL

Your rating with the business and professional men in Redwood City does not mean "are you a good fellow" — "a good spender," "a good talker," "a good intender"— it means "ARE YOU GOOD PAY"?

Last week, in a community not far from here, there was a story something like this about a certain $10 bill:

Mr. Smith owed Mr. Jones a $10 cash loan; he paid it promptly on the day he said he would. (Mr. Jones will be glad to loan Mr. Smith money again if the need should arise.) Mr. Jones dropped into the meat market for a roast for Mrs. Jones that day, and paid the $10 on his meat bill. The butcher, Mr. Wagner, gave the same $10 to his wife who had reminded him that the dressmaker's bill was due that day. Mrs. Wagner paid the dressmaker. The dressmaker, Mrs. Brown, was then able to pay the dry goods merchant for her account, and the dry goods merchant, with that $10 and other collections from other "paying people" was able to meet his loan at the bank promptly. Everybody paid up, everybody happy.

Mr. Smith, Mr. Jones, Mrs. Wagner, Mrs. Brown and the dry goods men all protected their credit with each other and the other business and professional people involved in the hundreds of little business transactions that go to make up community living.

Reverse the story and see how easily no one would have gotten their money, and all written "slow" for themselves instead of "prompt."

Too often we don't stop to think "what's in a name" in time to give that name a gilt-edged credit rating that is a more dear possession than the ordinary person ever realizes.

If you can keep your credit good with me I can keep my credit good with my creditors and so on around the circle. And when YOUR credit rating is good, and MY credit rating is good, and WE ALL HAVE good rating, then Redwood City has a "PROMPT" rating, and we have scored winning points in the game of making Redwood City THE ONE COMMUNITY IN TEN!

Federals Act To Put Padlock On Mountain House

If the Federal District court acts favorably on a petition filed this week by U. S. Attorney Albert Bagshaw, the Mountain House, well-known resort on the Skyline road near Crystal Springs lake, will be closed with a government padlock. The Mountain House is one of sixteen bay section places hit in an action for repeated violation of the prohibition laws.

Charging that the sixteen establishments named in the petition have been repeatedly raided for violation of liquor laws, Bagshaw asks that abatement proceedings be started against them, and also asks that a thirty day restraining order be issued pending final action on the petition.

La Honda Woman Dies While in East

Word was received here this week announcing the passing at Chicago, Ill., last Tuesday night of Mrs. Margaret Wetherbee, well known resident of La Honda. Mrs. Wetherbee died at the home of her daughter, Mrs. Walter Piper, whom she had been visiting for the past several months. She is survived by her husband, Allen Wetherbee, of La Honda and in addition to her daughter in the east, leaves four grandchildren.

Mrs. Wetherbee formerly conducted a hotel at La Honda. She was an expert in the culinary line and her table soon became famous, people going to La Honda from all parts of the state to enjoy her cooking.

Wedding To Be Show Feature

As a feature of Eddie's Advershow, the regular Friday evening feature on the stage of the Sequoia Theatre, a wedding, will be performed this week. At this marriage Miss Violet Koch will become the brid of Marquette T. Fadave. This will be a real wedding, and will be performed by a minister.

City Acts To Take Land Of Spring Valley

Company Employees To Be Retained By S. F.

An ordinance placing management of the Spring Valley Water company in the hands of the San Francisco board of supervisors was given its final passage at a special meeting of the board this week.

Plans for the civic celebration that will mark acquisition of the water system by the city were also discussed at this meeting. Tentative plans for the ceremonies set the date for Sunday, March 9. Supervisor Havenner heads the special citizens' committee in charge.

Sixty employes of the Spring Valley company slated to lose their jobs when the city acquired the system because of failure to meet certain requirements will be continued on the payroll of the city indefinitely, according to a decision of city officials.

These men will probably lose their jobs eventually because they have not been in the water company's employ a year or because there is a question whether men engaged in construction work can be considered part of the operating force. Only the operating force is being taken over by the city.

Station Bandit Is Caught By Oakland Police

Apprehended Man Is Wanted For Many Robberies

Oakland police on Wednesday affected the capture of Kenneth Frazer, wanted for robbery in this and several other counties in the bay region. Frazer is wanted in Burlingame, San Mateo, Oakland, San Francisco and Palo Alto.

Frazer is a brother of Percival Frazer, arrested in Mountain View and held in the jail here in connection with robberies committed in this county by the two. Percival Frazed was brought to the jail here on February 7 by Undersheriff Farrell and Officer Genochio of the Redwood City police.

The two brothers are said to have committeed robberies throughout the bay section, including that of the Button service station in San Mateo, the Public Food store in Mayfield, a service station in Runnymede, and many others.

Spring Time Is Seed Time In California

Sacramento, Cal., Feb. 27 (UP)—Just to prove that it's spring most of the time in California when it isn't summer, and that February is planting time on the gardener's calendar, read this:

The state department of finance has just received $3,000 worth of seeds, flowers, plants and shrubs to be used in beautifying grounds and gardens at various state institutions.

Preston School of Industry at Ione received a fourth of the consignment, to be used in landscaping the grounds of three new buildings there. State hospitals stress beautiful flowers and shrubs as part of its program of treating mental cases.

SHERIFF ARRESTS FOUR ON GAMBLING CHARGES

Breeder's Association Seeking to Make Test Case of California Anti-Betting Law At Tanforan Track.

The legality of the state's anti-betting law will be tested when charges against four men are heard in the courts of this county. The men were arrested by Sheriff McGrath Wednesday at the Tanforan race track, at a race staged for the purpose of creating a test case.

The race was conducted by the California Breeders' Association to test a new plan to allow money plays on horses, and yet keep within the law. The race resulted in the arrest of John Zaro, C. E. Hartwell, Jack Dennis and Aleck Cohen.

The plan used by the breeders in an effort to get around the betting laws was to run the race as a claiming race.

Under the rules of the jockey club, every horse entered in a claiming race is subject to claim for the entered price by anyone in good standing on the turf. In other words, after the time set when a horse may be withdrawn from a race in which it is entered, the horse belongs to the association for the purposes of sale for the entered price, and the association may pass title to it at any time within a few minutes after the official sign has been flashed on the result of the race, and the decision of its officials in such matters is final.

The Pacific Coast Breeders' Association sees no logical reason why this right to claim a horse should be given free, and proposes to charge a uniform price of $5 for an option to claims.

The decision of the association to indulge in racing was reached only after a most careful survey of the situation and study of conditions, and is predicated upon a certainty that its operations will be strictly within the law and offensive to no statute of this state.

Sheriff McGrath was on hand at the race with instructions to arrest any persons committing what he considered to be a violation of the state's racing laws. The arrest of the four men followed.

Officers of the Breeders' Association have been planning to hold race meets within the California law since announcement of their purchase of the track. Although betting on the results of the races is in violation of the state statutes, race horse men claim to have evolved a system of "investment" which avoids the gambling features of the law.

The association has applied for advice to eminent counsel including Knight, Boland & Christin, Walter H. Linforth, Charles S. Wheeler, Charles S. Wheeler, Jr. & Walter Slack and Archibald M. Johnson & A. A. De Ligne. It has submitted to these gentlemen certain hypothetical questions involving all the fundamentals of racing, and they have advised the association that the questions as stated to them do not violate any of the present statutes. The association states that it will be glad, however, to have them reviewed by the Superior Court of San Mateo county and have the matter settled definitely and finally.

STORY OF OLD ADOBE RECALLED BY WRITER

How An Angry Thrust Cost Pioneer Family a Fortune—Spanish Days on the University Campus

BY D. E. O'KEEFE

Mrs. John B. Buelna celebrated her 81st birthday at her home in Menlo Park last Monday. Mrs. Buelna was born at the San Francisco Presidio where her family lived for many years. In 1870 Mrs. Buelna married her husband, John B. Buelna, at Bolinas. She was then the young widow of Pembroke Samuel Farmin.

In 1844 when the dying echoes of the old Santa Clara Mission could be heard in the distance, John B. Buelna was born in an adobe house on the banks of the San Francisquito creek, a short distance from the Stanford Campus. The adobe building was constructed in 1812 by his grandfather, Antone Buelna, who was given a Spanish grant consisting of all the lands included in the Stanford Campus, the cities of Palo Alto, Mayfield, Mountain View and Los Altos, and also the San Gregorio Rancho, by the Spanish government at Mexico for Antone's service as a soldier. Buelna entertained lavishly at the adobe in those mellow, care-free days of Spanish California. In the height of his glory he passed away, his widow shortly marrying J. Roderiquez. The old adobe was often the scene of many merry parties. But a day came when sadness took the place of gayety. One bright summer morning in 1852 Roderiquez, accompanied by John Buelna, then a lad of eight years, left to attend horse races at Searsville. Much drinking was indulged in by the sports of that date. Roderiquez engaged in a brawl with a gay caballero named Gerimona Mesa.. Late in the afternoon Roderiquez left for home over the Sandhill Road. He was followed by the young Spaniard who taunted the old man on the way. Near the Sharon estate and not far from the Meyer palatial home, Roderiquez got out of his rig and challenged Mesa. The latter jumped from his prancing steed. Roderiquez drew a stiletto, and ran it through the body of Mesa. A groan and all was over, Mesa falling dead on the roadside. Young Buelna witnessed the sad scene and can now, after a period of 78 years, vividly tell the story in all its grimness.

Roderiquez fled to Mexico, but was brought back, and after several trials in San Francisco, was given his freedom; but the cost was tremendous. His faithful wife lost most of her large domain in defending the case. The property she lost is the most valuable in the state of California.

Young Buelna was an heir to the vast holding and no doubt would have inherited a princely fortune had it not been dissipated in the suit. Mr. and Mrs. Buelna, who have but little of this world's goods, could be rolling in wealth and affluence and be numbered among the nabobs of the country.

The old adobe, the relic of the Spanish era, like the Buelna fortune is also gone. When Senator Stanford came in possession of these lands he gave instruction to his foreman to protect the old adobe. He was a broad-visioned man who knew the historic value of the relic. It was his purpose to preserve it. However, some years after his death it was demolished by a superintendent who had no more vision or knowledge of history than Acut, the ape man.

It was on the steps of this old building that President Herbert Hoover began the great romance of his life. It was here that he courted the pretty Lou Henry in the early nineties, when both attended Stanford. In the long evenings both would stroll down to the adobe and sit on the steps and there croon sweet words of love. The romance culminated in marriage at Monterey a few years later. The popular president and the first lady of the land will ever hold dear the memories of those happy care-free days passed in the shadows of the old adobe erected in the lotus days of California by a soldier whose domain extended over vast tracts of rich land.

The old building also holds pleasant memories for the writer who spent his childhood within its walls.

Lights of New York

By GRANT DIXON

Severe Test

One more towering hotel is nearing completion in the neighborhood of Pennsylvania station, and the work of training the staff has begun. At the moment telephone operators are being chosen. An applicant is asked if she is courteous at all times, and if it appears that she is, she gets probationary employment. Then a professional annoyer goes to work.

For days he hounds the operator, calling from various rooms and making absurd and ill-mannered demands. He will ask for Circle 5920, get his connection, and then angrily flash the hotel operator. "Having a good time talking to the boy friend?" he will roar. "Why don't you keep your wits on your job? I told you to get me Circle 5923."

If the operator replies, "You did not. You asked for Circle 5920," she is discharged. But if she's meek and pleasant, she keeps her job.

Cops' College

New York will soon dedicate the only college of its kind in the world—a police college. Not only the sciences, but also the arts, will be taught to criminal catchers. Fifty men, from universities as well as the police ranks will form the faculty. The theory method, long the pet of writers of detective fiction, will not be taught. Instead, detectives will be instructed in correlating known facts. One wag insists that the students will be taught coptic. New York, by the way, was the first city in the country to organize a real police force, having organized a day force in 1825.

Kitchen Aid

The traffic control lights, up to now utterly useless except as a source of annoyance to pedestrians and motorists alike, have at last been put to practical employment. A certain young housewife who, although she lives on Park avenue, gets her husband's breakfast in the morning, has discovered that the lights are perfect for timing the eggs. Two green and three red flashes add up to just the right time to make hubby's eggs medium soft boiled.

Busybody

Late one evening a woman and her escort were taking a stroll along Fifth avenue, and they came upon a private policeman assigned to guard the various exclusive stores on the block. (In many sections of the city, merchants feel safer if they hire their own police force.) The private watchman stepped up to an ornate entrance, grasped the door and shook it vigorously, to determine that the lock hadn't been tampered with. His actions were puzzling to the woman stroller.

"Hey," she heyed in a well modulated voice, "You can't get in there. It's after hours and it's locked."

Unkind

One of the kindest of all theatrical criticisms that have come to my knowledge is an opinion of a certain actress' ability that was written by a man who is now, fortunately or unfortunately out of the profession. The actress was playing in a drama which involved the theft of a pearl necklace. "They spent three acts looking for the pearls," he wrote, "and from the way Miss Blank acted, I suspected all along that they were hidden in her mouth."

Significance in Plate on Funeral Cortege Car

Pennsylvania's new 1930 auto licenses have come in for the butt of many a pun in their short life, what with their unconventional "OU's," "AH's" and the ever-misunderstood XXX; but it remains for Chambersburg, upstate, to furnish the prize crack to date.

Driving through the town, a Philadelphia newspaper man halted to allow a funeral to pass. The cortege, a sizable delegation, bespoke the last rites of a prominent citizen.

In a closely curtained car, directly behind the hearse, rode an especially solemn-faced party. Being of a curious mental trend, the scribe followed the car with his eye.

The excess depression was explained when the hearse moved along so that the rear license plate came into view.

Its legend was—U2.—Philadelphia Record.

Eskimo Wife Helps Husband Die

Edmonton, Alta.—Despondent and fearful because he imagined he had been deserted by fellow members of his tribe, a fifty-year-old paralyzed Eskimo, living in a snow house near Ellice river, northwest territories, committed suicide with the assistance of his wife and in the presence of other members of his household, according to details of a weird case which was recently investigated by Royal Canadian mounted police officers.

The man, one Mukhagaluk, became paralyzed in the spine and hips and was unable to support himself. When his son-in-law, Konaiyak, left camp the aged paralytic became convinced he was being abandoned and announced his intention of killing himself.

For three days in succession he demanded a loaded rifle, and when this was denied him he attempted to choke himself with his fingers. Finally, on the fourth day, he prevailed upon his wife, Kaiaryuk, to tie a double strand of heavy cotton twine to a pole which had been stretched across the roof of the snow house in which the Mukhagaluks lived.

Mukhagaluk then crawled along a snow bench to the suspended twine in the center of which he fashioned a noose, slipped it around his neck and hanged himself.

Meanwhile his wife and other members of his family remonstrated with him verbally but made no physical attempt to restrain the head of the household from his contemplated act.

The northern tribes believe that no one should interfere with a man's actions so long as they affect nobody but himself.

The police decided that no arrests should be made after they had made a full investigation of the case.

A shrewd woman can tell by the way two other women smile when she approaches whether they have been talking about her.

Plane Fights Malaria

To combat the spread of malaria, paris green dust sprayed from underneath the carriage of a plane, which is able to cover thousands of acres of swamp land in a day, is proving to be the death of mosquito larvae.

The first experiment was conducted by a marine corps airplane in Haiti. According to a report of Samuel W. Honaker, consul at Port-au-Prince, the first trial was entirely satisfactory and areas, which were not liveable, are now cleaned up.

Albania Rich In Roman Relics

Rome.—When King Zogu of Albania presented to Premier Mussolini some time ago the superb marble head of the "Goddess of Buthrotum," discovered in his kingdom, he was doing more than an act of courtesy. His act emphasized the growing importance of Albania as a rich treasure trove for archeologists.

The small Balkan country of Albania has recently taken its place in the classical tradition of European countries because of the rich finds of Hellenic and Roman architecture and sculpture which have been discovered there.

Italians have found the traces of their forefathers in this small pastoral land. The Italian archeological mission, led by Dr. Luigi Ugolini, has unearthed antique treasures of great importance in that part of Albania which in Roman times was known as Illyria, or rather formed part of it.

Hidden under many feet of rough uncultivated land, as archeologists suspected for centuries, there have been excavated ancient theaters, temples, Roman baths, an early Christian baptistery of the Byzantine period and a valuable collection of Greek and Roman statuary and funeral monuments.

For more than 600 years Italian archeologists have been convinced that countless treasures of Greco-Roman civilization were hidden in the soil of Albania. The first archeological expedition from Italy left Rome in 1418. A second expedition followed in 1435. Neither had much success, partly owing to the troubled state of the country which made exploration difficult and partly owing to lack of adequate financial and technical means.

It remained for Doctor Ugolini, after another partly successful archeological expedition in the early Nineteenth century, to bring to light the ancient treasures of old Illyria.

According to Ugolini, there is still so much excavation to be done along the Dalmatian coast and especially in the zone of Buthrotum that millions of lire would be required to undertake the task thoroughly.

The list of Doctor Ugolini's discoveries on the site of Buthrotum and in the vicinity is long and important. The outstanding finds were the Byzantine baptistery, the statues of Augustus and other emperors, the temple of Esculepius and the remains of the Roman baths.

Buthrotum, the chief site of Ugolini's discoveries, is connected in legend and poem with the Virgilian epic. Virgil relates that Eneas, after the fall of Troy, embarked for Thrace and Crete, whence he proceeded for Buthrotum, where King Helenus offered him a great reception and a warm welcome.

To Review Jungle Exploration

Lady Richmond Brown, well-known British explorer, packs her kit for one more daring venture into the unexplored jungles of southern Honduras and northern Nicaragua, where she and her colleagues hope to learn more of the mysterious "lost city." The party, which is led by F. A. Mitchell-Hedges of the British Museum Maya committee, includes Karl Eugene Stein, Brown university student; George Hudson, English camera expert; Miss Rose Rosenblum, secretary, and Lady Richmond Brown.

Nebraskan Has Bible Dating Back to 1737

Wauneta, Neb.—Mrs. George Theobald of Wauneta is the possessor of a Bible translated by a Martin Luther and compiled in 1737. The tome has been in the possession of Mrs. Theobald's family for 194 years. It is made of parchment and is bound with wood and leather. It is in an excellent state of preservation. Brass bands protect the covers which bear the marks of heavy rings that once hooked the Bible to the pulpit of some old church.

Discover White Russians Drawing Soviet Pensions

Moscow.—Investigations of the pensions bureaus in various cities have revealed that some men who fought against the Soviet government have for years been drawing stipends as patriotic war veterans. Because of the chaotic conditions during the civil war period it is frequently difficult to establish on which side people fought. Some "whites" have thus managed to find a place in the red pension lists.

Everyone realizes that the interior of the earth is hot. But do you realize that the difference in temperature is quite noticeable in mine shafts? TRANSGRESSIONS OF SPEECH

By THOMAS ARKLE CLARK
Dean of Men, University of Illinois.

David may not have been as wise as Solomon, but he gave expression to a great many words of wisdom, and laid down principles of conduct which many of us would do well to follow. "I am purposed," he says in one of the psalms, "that my mouth shall not transgress." Indiscreet speech has been the cause of many a man's downfall. Sometimes it is he who talks thoughtlessly or impulsively or indiscreetly; sometimes it is one of his friends or acquaintances. Whoever it is, the result is too often disastrous.

Someone one day, in the town in which I used to live, having been refused a loan at the local bank for good and sufficient reason, started the rumor that the bank was on the verge of failure, and advised his friends, if they had any money deposited with the concern, to get it out as quickly as possible. The rumor spread like a prairie fire, and within a short time people by the hundreds rushed to the bank to draw out their savings. No assurance that the bank could give of its stability had any effect upon the depositors. They were determined to have their money, and only through the sheerest luck or good fortune was the bank saved from complete failure. Someone had let his mouth transgress.

Clayton is one of those confiding souls who can never keep important things to himself in spite of the fact that he is following a profession in which silence as to his client's situation is a more than golden virtue. He tells his wife everything and she is elated over knowing a great many things in which the public would have unusual interest, since they are really none of the public's business. Mrs. Clayton has little discretion; she talks fluently and continuously, and she derives the greatest satisfaction in telling what her husband knows and has said and is doing and many of the things she tells are very private and personal and indiscreet.

It is a great asset to have learned discretion in speech. My father was a rather silent man. He seemed to be content usually to let someone else talk. I spoke to him once about it and he said, "Son, I've never in my life been sorry for having said too little."

One of the most successful business men in the country—rich beyond belief he is—gave as one of the three characteristics which would lead a young man to success, the ability to keep his mouth shut.

A friend of mine, who handles a good deal of important private business, was telling me not long ago that he had a most valuable secretary whom he would find it almost impossible to replace.

"Why is she so good?" I asked.

"She never talks," was his reply.

Girlhood

The trying time in a young girl's life is reached when Nature leads her uncertain steps across the line which divides girlhood and womanhood. Neglect at this critical period is largely responsible for much of the misery of women. Often there is need of some safe, strengthening tonic to overcome the languor, nervousness and distress girls commonly experience at this time. Dr. Pierce's Favorite Prescription soothes the nerves, encourages the appetite and helps the entire womanly organism. It is purely herbal—contains no narcotic, nor any harmful ingredient. Druggists. Tablets or liquid.

One Use for Old Automobiles

Harry Bailey, a furniture manufacturer in Honolulu, tells what pineapple plantation owners are doing with wrecked and junked automobiles. The pineapple requires its iron every day as a stimulant. So to make a solution of iron oxide parts of old cars are melted in a bath of acid and the oxide thus obtained used as a spray for the tropical fruit.—Tacoma Ledger.

ONE PRESCRIPTION MADE FAMILY DOCTOR FAMOUS

Seldom has any single act been of greater benefit to mankind than that of Dr. Caldwell in 1885, when he wrote the prescription which has carried his fame to the four corners of the earth.

Over and over, Dr. Caldwell wrote the prescription as he found men, women and children suffering from those common symptoms of constipation, such as coated tongue, bad breath, headaches, gas, nausea, biliousness, no energy, lack of appetite, and similar things.

Demand for this prescription grew so fast, because of the pleasant, quick way it relieved such symptoms of constipation, that by 1888 Dr. Caldwell was forced to have it put up ready for use. Today, Dr. Caldwell's Syrup Pepsin, as it is called, is always ready at any drugstore.

HOW ARE YOU RATED?

"How's Jones rated?"

"PROMPT!" comes the unhesitating reply from the Credit Association.

The answer could have been one of four:

Prompt
Good
Fair
Bad

The Credit Association didn't MAKE this rating for Jones. They simply RECORDED the rating which JONES MADE FOR HIMSELF, and passed the information along to the business man.

By meeting his bills promptly by the 10th of every month, Jones had established himself as a safe credit risk, and had earned the BEST of CREDIT RATINGS!

And, inasmuch as over 80 per cent of all business is done on a credit basis, Jones had shown wise judgment in not neglecting the PROMPT payment of his accounts. He had SAFE-GUARDED HIS BUYING POWER, AND INCREASED HIS PRESTIGE!

There is no secret about HOW to pay your bills promptly, and keep your credit and self-respect. The answer is a budget! Figure possible expenses on a monthly basis and put someone in charge of the payment of accounts. Have them see that ALL of the past month's bills are paid NOT LATER than the 10th of the following month!

Carelessness in the payment of accounts does not necessarily mean intentional dishonesty. But it is difficult for the business man to make the distinction. It's better NOT to be careless; it MIGHT be misunderstood.

Remember:—The greatest percentage of credit losses come not from INTENTIONAL DISHONESTY, but from carelessness and negligence.

SAFEGUARD YOUR CREDIT AND IT WILL SAFEGUARD YOU!

Let's all maintain a "good-pay" reputation for and in

Begin At Home

This may be a mistaken idea, but it does seem rather peculiar that folks of this country send millions in money to instill new ideas of economics, social habits and religion into the minds of the population of foreign countries when there are sections of this country where degredation is as a stench in the nostrils of civilization, so to speak. It is conceeded that Chicago has the highest degree of political corruption, the meanest dives and the most daring racketeers of history. With all its wealth, Chicago is broke. The school teachers have received only a portion of their salaries for months and there is nothing for next pay day. On account of shortage of money, 500 policemen have been discharged, and crime is rampant. The fire and other city departments face the same predicament. And all this because Chicago is governed by a set of petty politicians, who, it has been proven, are in cahoots with the criminal elements. How about a little uplift work, social reform and religious instruction for our home city of Chicago?

Our Greatest Problem

The toll of motor vehicle fatalities continues to go up. In 1929 our automobiles killed 31,000 people — a rise of 13 per cent over the figures for the year before.

And yet we are all excited because the "parrot disease" has killed a couple of dozen people!

We aren't doing a thing to reduce this casually list. Year by year it continues to mount and year by year we read the figures, say "Yes, it's awful" and go on as we were before. If something is not done, our automobiles soon will be killing as many people each year as heart disease.

Here is a problem that is as urgent as any other problem we have. It demands action another five years, at the very least, before of the most drastic sort, and it demands it at once. But it is a safe bet that it will be we are sufficiently aroused to do anything about it.

Parrots as Pets or Pests

An unfamiliar word, psittacosis, has been apparent in headlines since several cases of a malady diagnosed as parrot fever have caused illness and death among human beings. While the United States Public Health Service is investigating the problem, many an innocent Poll is languishing under a cloud of suspicion. Some pet owners have even abandoned their parrots to die of cold and starvation. Such inhuman treatment is quite unnecessary, especially as health authorities declare that the disease is not an epidemic and is limited to parrots recently imported into this country.

Out of the public scare has come one piece of sound advice. It is the warning of physicians and public health officers to refrain from handling pets of all kinds as much as possible, and to wash the hands thoroughly after touching them or their cage or kennels.

Doctor Shirley W. Wynne, health commissioner of New York City, has issued a statement which has epitomized this warning. "In handling parrots, one should bear in mind that the claws of the bird are likely to be soiled, and that after handling a parrot, one should always scrub the hands thoroughly."

This is a common sense measure that all can find it practical to follow. Further advice along this line is to keep the pet animals and birds as clean as possible, and to exercise the same care regarding cages and baskets and kennels. This is particularly pertinent since it is the belief of some medical authorities that insanitary conditions under which birds are kept on the journey up from the tropics may have some relation to the development of psittacosis.

Mail Boxes Become Ghostly

Fantastic rural mail boxes are now taboo. Besides, the United States Post Office Department has said, in effect, that boxes may be painted any color, just so long as it is white. In other words, Uncle Sam says the mail boxes that stud rural highways and roads must be white and nothing but white. That's that! While, of course, uniformity of color is a primary purpose sought, it seems likely that greater visability, both by day and night, is also a consideration. The postal authorities having spoken, the prospect is for plenty of exercise for paint brushes.

The Star Spangled Banner

Strange as it may seem the United States has no national anthem and Congress is now Spangled Banner official status. A petition wrestling with the question of giving the Star signed by 5,000,000 people has reached Washington. Perhaps the reason no one gets very much wrought up over the matter may be found in the fact that a legislative decree will likely have no effect upon the situation. The Star Spangled Banner is, in fact, the National anthem. This is one thing Americans can agree upon without any law upon the subject to persuade them.

COUNTY TO RECEIVE FUNDS FROM STATE FOR SCHOOLS

$360,812.17 To Be Paid To County By State In Apportionment of State Funds

SACRAMENTO, CAL., February 27 — (UP)—San Mateo county will receive $269,389.17 for its elementary schools and $91,423.00 for its high schools from California's State School Fund for the fiscal year ending June 30, it was announced here today.

This apportionment, made by Vierling Kersey, state superintendent of public instrurtion, was based upon a total average daily attendance for the county of 9,219 in elementary schools and 2,775 in high schools, Kersey said.

The grand total dividend among the 58 counties of California for support of the state's education system for the school year 1929-30 was brough to $19,438,434.27 for elementary school, $6,389,354.79 for high schools and $753,800 for the 16 junior colleges scattered throughout the state.

"Each county's share of the educational fund is determined on the basis of average daily attendance, in addition to other factors provided by law," said Kersey. "This basis is $5.93 per unit of average daily attendance in elementary grades and $24.52 per unit in high school.

"The first apportionment of school funds, made September 10, 1929 ,included the appointment on teacher units ,at the rate of $700 per unit for elementary schools, and an additional sum to reimburse elementary and high school districts for half the excess cost of educating physically handicapped children.

"It also ncludes $550 per year maintained for each ytar of the high school course maintained in each four-year high school, senior high school and junior high school, and 'bonus' appointments on account of average daily attendance in special day and evening classes and in compulsory part-time classes for minors."

The amounts received by junior classes were based on $100 par unit of average attendance for the entire year, and $2,000 for each district junior college.

Pastor Talks On Palestine Trip

Impressions of Galilee was the topic of Rev. Charles H. Gatchel, Sunday evening at the Baptist church. This is the third in a series of lectures he is giving on his travels through Palestine.

His dramatization of the ancient cities where Christ performed miracles and taught the multitudes was touching. "There does not seem to be any record that Jesus throughout his minstry went farther north than the Sea of Galilee," said Rev. Gatchel, while he spoke briefly about his trip from Damascus, the most ancient city of civilization to Galilee, a distance of about 100 miles.

"We passed through towns where we could look out of our compartment windows and see little children actually starving for food." Other conditions described by Rev. Gatchel were equally pathetic. Boys at the age of five were put to work in the factories hammering brass and girls are set to work in the rug factories as soon as they are old enough to use a needle and thread.

The Sea of Galilee is about 14 miles long, 7 1-2 miles wide and has an average depth of 140 feet. It is 700 feet below the level of the Mediterranean Sea and surrounded by high mountains. The winds there are so terriffic in the day time that any travel by water has to be done at night, Rev. Gatchel said.

He emphasized the great feeling of joy that came over him as he stood on the same ground and passed over the same lake as Christ did 2000 years ago. "To travel over Palestine and visit these cities makes one know the Savior better." While at Galilee, Rev. Gatchel visited Tiberias, which was once contemplated by the Jews as their capital; the ruins of Capernaum where, according to scriptures, a man sick with palsy was let down through the roof of the temple and was healed by Jesus; and Cadara where, it is also written that Jesus cast a legion of devils out of a man into a herd of swine and they perished in the sea.

Last Sunday Rev. Gatchel spoke in detail on the ruins of Baalbek, which are considered the most outstanding and unsolved engineering achievements of the day. Some of the ruins that remain standing contain stones weighing 720 tons each. They are from 64 to 68 feet long, 14 feet high and 12 feet thick; and there is one wall in which there are nine of these stones piled one on top of the other. The pillars, some of which are 64 feet high, are so perfect in architectural design and fit together with such exactness that the thinnest of paper could not be inserted between the joints. Mr. Gatchel said the ruins of Baalbek are the most gigantic in the world and date back far beyond any historical record.

Father Kennedy Kiwanis Speaker

The Rev. C. E. Kennedy, administrator of St. Paul's parish in San Francisco, and former pastor of Mt. Carmel Catholic church of this city, was the speaker at the regular weekly meeting of the Redwood City Kiwanis Club Wednesday noon at the Sequoia hotel.

Father Kennedy, a charter member of the club, has devoted a great portion of his life to boys' work and promoting boys' activities. His talk was concerned with boys, especially the relation of fathers to sons. He advised great patience with boys at the time in their lives when they first begin to think about what they are going to do in life. This is the critical point in a boy's life, Father Kennedy stated, and is a time when he needs the counsel of men successful in the various stations of the community.

A short talk on the place of the Kiwanian in the community was given by Charles Nelson, manager of the Redwood City store of the J. C. Penney, Inc. The chairman of the meeting was D. R. Stafford.

Kentfield Estate Filed for Probate

Edward E. Kentfield, Sutter hotel, San Francisco, this week petitioned in the superior court of this county for letters of administration in the estate of his son, John Kentfield, who died suddenly here on February 16.

John Kentfield died without leaving a will. The father claims that he is the sole heir-at-law to the estate of his son, which he says, is less than $10,000 in value.

The son, John Kentfield, was a well-known resident of this city, and the father formerly resided here, as did also his father, the late Captain John Kentfield. The family were pioneer residents of the state, and were among the leaders in the shipping industry in the early days of San Francisco.

Congressman Free May Not Return to Conduct Campaign

Whether or not Congressman A. M. Free will be able to come to California to conduct his own campaign for re-election to congress is at present problematical, according to a letter received this week by a friend of the congressman.

Free, has not been able to visit his home in San Jose for over a year. In regard to the possibility of returning to California for the campaign, he writes:

"I am exceedingly busy. I got through a survey for the San Jose Harbor. I expect to get the matter of the improvement of the mouth of Redwood Creek into the Rivers and Harbors bill. I have also secured the endorsement of the Rivers and Harbors Committee of the Monterey project and I am working hard on the matter of the dirigible base for Sunnyvale. These things, in addition to the ordinary duties which I have are certainly keeping me busy.

Wreck Ends Ride For S. F. Youth

A wild ride down the peninsula in a stolen car ended suddenly Monday morning for Franklin Bronson, 17, of San Francisco. The youth was found by passing motorists under a wrecked machine beside the Bayshore highway near South San Francisco. He was suffering from a broken arm and a severe scalp wound.

Young Bronson was found by Traffic Officer Paul Perusinna, who took him to the South San Francisco hospital for treatment. The boy admitted stealing the car in San Francisco. The accident occured at 4 o'clock Monday morning, when Bronson failed to make a turn quick enough and went over the bank into a ditch.

San Carlos Driver Cited After Crash

The crash of two cars in the presence of Officer William Cotter of San Mateo resulted in a citation for Michio Imachi of San Carlos, on a charge of reckless driving. The crash occured at the intersection of Third avenue in San Mateo and B street.

Imachi is said to have cut a corner and precipitated a crash with a car driven by Frank Sunderland, 1119 Fifth avenue, San Mateo.

County Cow Wins Milking Honors

The honor of having the world's champion milk producer goes to a San Mateo county dairy, the Troutmere Farm at La Honda. The cow, Topsy, a Guernsey, produced 22,152 pounds of milk during the year 1929, and 935 pounds of butter fat.

Topsy is the mother of "Colonel Lindbergh," champion young bull of many Pacific coast shows. Her title was awarded by the American Guernsey Cattle club, following an examination of the prize animal by experts of the Universities of California, Oregon, and Washington.

R. S. MOORE WILL FILED FOR PROBATE

The law firm of Brobeck, Phleger and Harrison, with offices in the Crocker building, San Francisco, on Tuesday filed in the county clerk's office the last will and testament of Robert S. Moore, who died on February 16, 1930.

The will is dated May 6, 1925. A codicil to the instrument is dated March 30, 1928.

The petition for letters testamentary does not state the value of the big estate except that it is over $10,000. It is believed the value of the estate will reach the $5,000,000 mark. The greater portion of this was accumulated during the war. Moore was engaged in the shipbuilding business and constructed hundreds of vessels for the government during the conflict. His father was one of the original owners of the Risdon Iron Works and it was the son who developed the business of the big concern.

The deceased maintained a palatial estate at Menlo Park close to the estate of Senator Samuel M. Shortridge. Many of the employes on the estate were remembered in the will.

The bulk of the vast estate is left to the widow, Mrs. Florence Moore. Alice Holmes Puhara, of Palo Alto and the secretary of the deceased, was bequeathed the sum of $10,000. The chauffeur, Arnold Mangold, was left a similar sum, while the gardener, M. W. Carter, was given $1000. A sister, Mrs. Rodgers Peters, Berkeley, was left $20,000. Another sister, Mrs. R. D. Moore in Scotland, receives the income of $20,000. Mrs. Florence Moore is the trustee for this fund. Mrs. Florence Moore is named as executrix. A well known trust company of San Francisco is to act with her in the settlement of the estate.

How to Play BRIDGE
Series 1929-30 by
Wynne Ferguson
Author of "PRACTICAL AUCTION BRIDGE"

Copyright, 1929, by Hoyle, Jr.

ARTICLE No. 20

One of the most popular forms of indoor amusements is the Auction Bridge problem. You will see interested players in the theatres, subway trains, at the seashore and other Summer resorts, poring over some double dummy Bridge problem. Just to be in the fashion this article will deal entirely with such problems.

The first problem is one for you to think over during the coming week. Talk it over with your friends and remember that the correct solution must be one that is good against any defense. Don't make the mistake of figuring out a way to make the requisite number of tricks when your solution is possible only because of the bad play of the adversaries. Such a solution is not a correct one. A correct solution must be one that is possible against any or the best defense.

Problem No. 19

Diamonds are trumps and Z is in the lead. How can Y Z win eight of the nine tricks against any possible defense? Solution in the next article.

The following problem was given in the preceding article. The solution is given here. If you haven't already tried to solve it, do so now before you read the solution.

Answer to Problem No. 18

Hearts — K, J, 9
Clubs — 4, 3

If spades are trumps and Z is in the lead, how can Y Z win six of the seven tricks against any defense?

Solution: Z should lead the king of spades. A can safely discard the seven of hearts, Y must discard the ten of diamonds and B is forced to win the trick with the ace of spades. B now has the choice of two leads: (1) the deuce of clubs; (2) the nine of diamonds.

(1) Suppose B leads the deuce of clubs. Z should win the trick with the queen of clubs, all following suit. Z should now lead the six of hearts, A should play the eight, and Y should win the trick with the nine. B is forced to discard. He cannot discard a diamond or Y's king of diamonds and Z's six of diamonds will win two tricks. B is forced, therefore, to discard the five of clubs. Y should now lead the king of hearts and B again is forced to discard. He still cannot discard a diamond for the same reason given in the preceding trick; so he is forced to discard the nine of clubs. Z should then discard the four of diamonds and A follows suit. Y should now lead the king of diamonds. B and Z follow suit and A is forced to discard. He cannot discard the queen of hearts or Y's jack of hearts will be good; therefore he is forced to discard the eight of clubs. Y now leads the four of clubs and Z must win the next two tricks with the king and seven of clubs.

(2) Suppose at trick two B leads the nine of diamonds. Z follows suit and A is forced to discard. He cannot discard another heart or all of Y's hearts will be good; so he is forced to discard the six of clubs. Y wins the trick with the king of diamonds. Y should now lead the trey of clubs and win the trick in Z's hand with the queen, all following suit. Z should now lead the six of hearts. A should play the eight and Y should win the trick with the nine. B is thus forced to discard. He cannot discard the queen of diamonds or Z's six of diamonds will be good; so he is forced to discard the five of clubs. Y should now play the king of hearts and B is again forced to discard. He cannot discard the queen of diamonds or Z's six of diamonds will be good; so he is forced to discard the nine of clubs. Z should discard the six of diamonds and A follows suit. Y should now lead the four of clubs and Z must win the next two tricks with the king and seven of clubs.

Thus in both cases, Y Z win six of the seven tricks against any defense. It is a pretty problem in the forcing of discards. Both A and B are forced to discard clubs and thus enable Y Z to make three club tricks when only two tricks in that suit appear to be winners. The forcing of discards is one of the most common ways that good players adopt to win tricks that the average player would lose. Study this problem and the methods adopted very carefully. It will well repay you.

Spring has come and the weather is delightful.

Miss Fannie Walker is here from the city visiting her sister, Mrs. John Coats.

Miss Sallie Nelson entertained the Euchre Club at her home last night.

L. P. Behrens was absent from town on business Tuesday and Wednesday of this week.

George Winter is erecting a new six-room cottage on his property near Five Points.

Mrs. H. W. Lampkin and her little daughter will leave today for San Jose to visit Mr. Lampkin's parents.

John Diehlman has had piles driven in the creek west of his Bridge Street bakery, on which he can erect a small store or office building 18x24 should he find anyone desiring such a place.

A commodious storeroom is being constructed in the rear of Hull Bros store for two carloads of hardware recently arrived from the east. The rapidly increasing business of the firm makes more room necessary.

Mrs. M. E. Hanson and her daughter, Laura, returned from Los Angeles Wednesday after a very pleasant visit of two weeks. On their return they were delayed ten hours by the wreck of the Coast Limited, the train which preceded them.

Rev. James Warren, the pioneer minister, who died in Washington last Friday, was the first Congregational minister in this county. Dr. Warren started the First Congregational church in San Francisco fifty-five years ago, and after a few years there, took up missionary work in this county. He was instrumental in organizing the Congregational church in San Mateo, and held services for a time in Redwood City. Rev. H. E. Jewett, formerly of Redwood, conducted the funeral services, which were held in the First Congregational church, San Francisco, Wednesday. Interment was in Cypress Lawn cemetery.

Woman Arrested at Woodside On Reckless Driving Charge

Mrs. J. T. Murray, giving her occupation as a housewife, and her residence as in San Francisco, was arrested Sunday near Woodside by Officer Chester Kreiss. The woman was booked at the jail here on a charge of reckless driving.

The arrest followed complaints by several motorists that Mrs. Murray had brushed the fenders of their cars as she made a rapid but unsteady course along the highway. Kreiss stated that the woman had been drinking. Two women in the car with her were not held by the police. Mrs. Murray was later released on $25 cash bail, and will appear before Justice of the Peace Percy Jackson for hearing.

WOODSIDE

The opening of the Betty-Lou Tea Room, at the entrance to Woodside Glens, which had been scheduled for the 15th of this month, has been postponed till some uncertain day in March. A difference of opinion between the owner and the construction engineer led to an impasse and work on the building has stopped for the present.

A program of entertainment will be offered the parents of Woodside on Friday evening by the P.-T. A., under the designation of "Fathers' Night." The program will be in charge of Mrs. Albert Meyer.

The old store at the top of the hill, still known to most of us as "Jack Williamson's store," although Jack hasn't been there for fifteen years, has been remodeled and is now the business headquarters of the contracting firm of Palmtag & Leon. The old building has served many purposes, as an old time saloon, a grocery store, bootlegging joint, dance hall, wood-working shop and at last has graduated into dignity.

Mrs. R. P. Hayes, for twenty years a resident of Woodside, passed away very suddenly, early Thursday morning while on a visit to friends in San Bruno.

The Woodside Girl Scouts held their regular meeting at the club rooms, on Wednesday afternoon.

The regular monthly meeting of the Partnent-Teacher Association will be held next Thursday afternoon.

Mrs. James Wilkie returned from thee hospital to her home here on Tuesday.

Dr. McMills' dental clinic, held at the school, on alternate Thursdays, is proving very popular with the children, who seem to prefer this treatment to a visit to the dentist's office.

Jack Neuman, captain and pitcher of the school baseball team, sprained his ankle on Tuesday and in consequence baseball practice has suffered a slump.

Mrs. Herman Wobber entertained a party of sixteen at a dinner party given at her home here, on Sunday.

The rainfall for the year has already reached the normal for the past ten years. Nearly 23 inches have been recorded in our rain gauges for the season.

South City Voters Defeat Park Bonds

Two propositions for improving the parks and playgrounds of South San Francisco through bond issues were decisively defeated at an election held in that city on Tuesday. The bond issues lost by almost two to one.

One proposition, the issuing of $185,000 bonds for the purchase and improvement of three parks and the construction of a municipal swimming pool were defeated with 1031 votes against it, and 472 in favor.

The second and alternative proposition, the issuance of $50,000 in bonds for the acquiring of a site and the construction of a municipal swimming pool, lost with 567 votes against it and 176 in favor.

Seeing Big League BASEBALL

By BILLY EVANS

Sportswriter, Big League Umpire and General Manager of the Cleveland Indians

It has been my experience, as an umpire, that the better ball players, I might say the stars of the game, are the easiest to handle. The mediocre player with limited possibilities, the veteran who is slipping and the youngster who is being carried away by his own self importance, are by far the hardest class of players to manage. The player with ability realizes that the umpire is a part of the game, earning a livelihood in the same profession and is content for the most part to let him render his decisions without any serious difference of opinion. It was the unusual for great pitchers like Mathewson, Johnson, Alexander, Young and others of that type to take issue with the umpire. Occasionally they offered a slight protest to some ruling on balls or strikes and an umpire usually doubted the correctness of the ruling when such a protest was mildly made. The umpire knew the protest was based on an honest belief.

Ty Cobb stands out as the greatest star of all time, yet despite his greatness, Cobb was not a hard man to get along with if the umpire adopted the proper tactics.

Cobb was smart, had plenty initiative and was aggressive. An umpire couldn't get anywhere fighting Cobb. Having the last word he could win the argument by chasing him from the field, but often there are other methods that will achieve the desired result without ejecting the player from the game. In reality, not until Cobb became manager of the Detroit club did he have any trouble with the American league staff of umpires Like all players, he would occasionally get the gate but the next day it would be forgotten. The additional duties of manager as well as star player, the added responsibilities, made for Cobb a greater difference of opinion with umpires than he ever had as player. The keen mind of Cobb as manager couldn't always get itself on a level with some player who failed to make the proper play—pulled a "bone."

Ty Cobb.

From his position in center field he would often trot in to take the player, who had offended, to task. Such a performance took time, delayed the game. The umpires received orders from Mr. Johnson that such a practice would have to be cut down to the minimum if not actually stopped.

I didn't see the Detroit club for several weeks after the order had been issued, and I noted that Ty had been chased several times in the interim because he persisted in jogging in from center field. As I have said before, Cobb was aggressive and similar tactics by the umpire in charge seldom made for a solution of an argument in which he was involved. To threaten Cobb with expulsion merely stirred up trouble and invariably caused you to so act, regardless of your wishes in the matter. I decided that if Cobb persisted in coming in from center field when I met up with his club, I would have to adopt other tactics than strong arm methods. He didn't disappoint me. The first time he came in I called him aside.

"Ty, you are well aware that the umpires have a bulletin about you wearing a path from center field to the pitcher's box on all the American league parks." He smiled slightly.

"You also know part of this crowd is on you, and would be tickled if I sent you to the club house. A majority of the crowd came out to see you play. No one came out to see me umpire. My drawing power today is limited to a pass for two." The smile widened a bit.

"Such being the case I don't want to chase you unless you give me no other alternative. I've got my orders and if you persist in disobeying them, there is nothing left for me to do but banish you if I want to keep on umpiring in the American league."

Cobb was on his way to the outfield before I had finished. He realized that I was trying to be reasonable, and not once during the rest of the series did we have the slightest disagreement over the policy of trying to wear out the grass from center field to second base.

BULLETIN RIGHT ONLY 10 PER CENT

Carnegie Report but Partially Accurate.

Bob Zuppke, University of Illinois coach, told a football audience at Lansing, Mich., that Bulletin 23, recently published by the Carnegie foundation, is accurate in only 10 per cent of its statements.

The Illinois gridiron mentor was a speaker at a merchants' banquet in honor of Michigan State's football team of 1929.

"One out of ten statements published in what is known as Bulletin 23 of the Carnegie foundation is based on facts. The rest is hearsay," Zuppke said.

Professing a personal acquaintance with and admiration for "the scholars who are the authors of the bulletin," Coach Zuppke said that their investigation was "colored by their individual opinions."

Too Shy to Wed

Situated in the lovely fruit-growing district of the Cornish valley of the Tamar, Landulph is said to be the shyest village in England. The young folk there are so nervous of one another that there has been but one marriage at the ancient parish church within the past five years. According to the rector, the young men think more about playing cricket than they do courting. A church warden is optimistic enough to believe that romance will return to the village in due course.

Weights Weighty Problem

Officials of the Melbourne royal show at Melbourne, Australia, recently were confronted with what they considered to be a difficult scientific problem. They noticed that when 24 pounds of milk were taken from a cow which had been previously weighed the bossy had lost only 18 pounds. The secretary of the Royal Agricultural society weighed himself carefully, then drank one pound of water. He was astonished to find that he had gained only 10 ounces in weight. The test was made before council stewards and Dr. H. McKenna, the surgeon to the Royal Agricultural society.

John's Mother Praises Doctor

There isn't a mother living who won't agree that no half-sick child should be the subject for an experiment with medicines of uncertain merit. When your child is bilious, headachy, half-sick, feverish, restless, with coated tongue, bad breath, no appetite or energy, you know that nine times out of ten it's a sign his little stomach and bowels need purging. And when you know that for over fifty years leading physicians have endorsed one preparation for this condition, there doesn't seem to be any reason for "trying" things.

Rich, fruity California Fig Syrup clears the little stomach and bowels gently, harmlessly and in a hurry. It regulates the bowels, gives tone and strength to them and to the stomach; and helps to give your child new strength, energy and vitality. Thousands of Western mothers praise it. Mrs. Joseph W. Hill, 4306 Bedford Ave., Omaha, Nebraska, says: "I'll never forget the doctor who got me to give my baby boy, John, California Fig Syrup. Nothing else seemed to help his weak bowels. That was when he was just a baby. He suffered a good deal before I gave him Fig Syrup, but it stopped his trouble quick. I have used it with him for colds and little upset spells ever since. I consider him a Fig Syrup boy."

CALIFORNIA NEWS REVIEW

Plans for a yacht harbor at Coyote Point, midway between Burlingame and San Mateo, were revealed by the San Mateo Chamber of Commerce. A. W. Deuel, president of the San Francisco Bay Bridge Company, is one of the leading backers of the project.

While walking along a new stretch of state highway between Mt. Brow and Columbia recently, Fred Dambacher of Springfield picked up a specimen of quartz which contained a little more than $30 worth of gold.

A campaign to have designated as the location for a school of instruction for state traffic officers has been launched by Red Bluff business men, and J. J. Borree, inspector in charge of traffic schools, has declared that the city's petition will be given every consideration. Red Bluff has already been designated as the headquarters for the district inspector, and it is pointed out that, being at the hub of the highway system in northern California, Red Bluff is within easy reach of all officers in northern California.

Bank and corporation franchise taxes for the current fiscal year will bring approximately $6,000,000 into the coffers of the state, it was estimated by Reynold E. Blight, state franchise tax commissioner. He said he expected to receive 35,000 returns before the March 15 deadline. Return blanks have been mailed by Blight to banks and corporations having a taxable year coinciding with the calendar year. Every corporation doing business in the state is required by law to make its return within two months and fifteen days after the close of its fiscal year, Blight pointed out, and the maximum tax is $25. Penalties are provided in the law for failure to transmit a return.

The city of Richmond had instructed H. J. Brunnier, San Francisco engineer, to prepare plans for repairing municipal dock No. 2, on the inner harbor, damaged by fire last November. The city has settled with an insurance company for $7799, estimated damage to the dock.

Safeguarding California watersheds as the best protective measures for the state's forestry and water resources was recommended by conservationists representing a score of organizations after a session in the capital assembly chambers in Sacramento. Endorsing a policy of broader public education in fire prevention, the delegates, representing all sections of the state, pledged unqualified support to the State Forestry Board in its conservation program for 1930. Resolutions passed by the group asked that California, as an obligation in protecting its watersheds, immediately carry out a complete plan of forest safeguard.

A marked increase in natural gas wastage in California during 1929 was reported by Claude C. Brown, gas commissioner for the State Railroad Commission. The increase was declared, however, to be largely due to the enormous jump in production from Kettleman Hills and other new fields. "The past year stands out as one of the great acomplishments and expansion in the natural gas industry in California," Brown stated. "The production for 1929 was 557 billion cubic feet. Of this 248 billion cubic feet were blown off in the air. In 1928, the production was 317 billion cubic feet, with 239 billion wasted."

Angels Camp, at one time heavy gold producer, is excited over the announcement that Domingo Rolleri has completed arrangements with a company to commence operations on several quartz claims in the Albany district. The claims embrace the Big Springs, Marble Springs, Bullion, Morning Star and Gold Leaf mines.

Fresno city officials, gratified with the California Superior Court's decision favoring Fresno city in litigation over the proposed municipal ownership of the local system of the California Water Service Company, declared that they were determined to bring to a conclusion their program for early acquisition of the properties by the city. Mayor Leymel announced that the city would continue its fight for the purchase of the water system in spite of the service company's threat to take the case before the United States Supreme Court.

That a complete course in aviation, except for actual flying, will be given at the Santa Rosa high school is possible. Under a plan advocated by the State chamber of commerce, Principal Gardiner Spring announced, the course may be added to the curriculum there at an early date.

Directors of the Santa Rosa Chamber of Commerce had decided to appear before the County Board of Supervisors at an early date to urge the endorsement of a Sonoma County State Fair exhibit this year. Frank Sandercock, E. U. White and Secretary G. Lansing Hurd were named as a committee to appear before the board.

The five leading historic spots of Shasta County will be selected from a list of fifty places by the Trails of '49 committee at Redding. Each spot so selected will then be marked by a huge native boulder with proper bronze plaque and inscription. Art students at the Shasta Union High School will compete in designing a special Shasta design for the plaques.

A unit of the new infantry regiment being organized by the California National Guard in northern California may be secured by Eureka. State officers of the National Guard are making the survey.

The law has stepped in to prevent razing of an old landmark, the Methodist Church at Gold Run, near Auburn. Superior Judge J. B. Landis of Placer County recently made permanent a restraining order preventing destruction of the property, sought by mining interests. The church was erected in the '70s by funds raised by popular subscription, brought about, according to local tradition, after it was necessary to hold funeral services for a young girl in a Gold Run saloon. Religious services have not been held in the building in recent years.

A 400-acre tract at Patrick's Point will be Humboldt's first unit of the state's park system. Arrangements to purchase the land, which includes a two-mile ocean and a one-mile Redwood highway frontage, practically has been completed.

The state department of public works awarded the Griffith Company of Los Angeles a $2800 contract for super-elevating the asphalt concrete on four turns along the highway between the Los Angeles-Ventura county line and Conejo grade.

Railroad service between Point Reyes and Monte Rio on the thirty-six mile coast branch of the Northwestern Pacific Railroad, was doomed following issuance of a discontinuance order by the Interstate Commerce Commission in Washington, D. C.

Construction of shop buildings and warehouses costing $65,400 was started on Goat Island for the lighthouse division of the federal government. A three-story reinforced concrete warehouse will adjoin a shop building of similar dimensions.

Incident to the Federal Government's renewal of surveys for development of Morro Bay, the San Joaquin Valley Counties of Kings, Tulare, Fresno and Kern have been asked to provide funds for an economic survey to disclose the possible export tonnage which such a seaport might receive. The War Department is now engaged in a new survey of the possibilities of developing Morro Bay.

Claims for $50,100 filed by Otto and Catherine Bushaw against Sutter County were tabled by the county supervisors. The sum was claimed as damages declared by the Bushaws to have been caused by a defective county road. A damage suit may follow.

In an attempt to solve the modern problem of parking for out-of-town motorists, Stockton merchants turned back the pages of history and called upon the customs of the dons who once ruled the state. Stockton, originally laid out with a plaza, as was every truly Spanish town in California, has kept that plaza intact throughout all the years for sentimental reasons. Merchants have decided to ask the city fathers to dedicate the plaza to the use for which it originally was intended—a gathering place for those who come to the city from surrounding rural districts. Local motorists would be asked to honor the spirit of the rule by keeping out of the plaza on penalty of receiving a tag for overtime parking.

Los Angeles air lines recently inaugurated operation of their planes under a standing rule that any pilot who flies below the legal limit of 500 feet, recently set by the Department of Commerce, will be dismissed.

Additional improvement, costing $65,500, for the state highway which carries fully 95 per cent of motor traffic between San Joaquin Valley and Oakland and the bay region, has been ordered by the state. The improvement calls for widening and thickening of the present 15-foot concrete pavement near Banta, two miles east of Tracy, with asphaltic concrete, 200 feet wide.

Drillers putting down a well at San Bernardino for the city have encountered water which is declared to be too hot to pump into the mains. The thing which interests and puzzles city officials is that the new well is not more than 150 feet from another city well from which cold water is now being obtained. The new well will be drilled 400 feet deeper, and if cold water is not found it is proposed to use the warm water in a municipal swimming pool planned for Meadowbrook Park.

More than 60 per cent of Delhi settlers have filed acceptances of plan "W" for adjustment of contracts between settlers and the state, it was announced by Charles W. Cleary, chief of the state division of land settlement. Whether a sufficient number of settlers have acepted the plan to permit its successful operation can not be determined until an analysis of these acceptances has been made, Cleary explained. Practical factors involved in the Delhi situation are so complex that several days will be required for analysis before it is determined whether the acceptances are sufficient to put plan "W" into effect," Cleary said.

California's "traveling sanatorium" neared the 20,0000 mark in its statewide campaign of tuberculosis prevention among school children. A total of more than 19,000 students in California schools were examined for symptoms of the disease in 1929, Dr. Edythe Tate Thompson, chief of the tuberculosis department of the Department of Public Health, reported. The "traveling sanatorium" is a motor truck, fitted with an X-ray apparatus and paraphernalia for making thorough examinations of high school students. The truck is manned by a corps of trained attendants, who work in conjunction with school authorities. The X-ray plates are developed in the truck, after examination has been made of each student in the freshman class of high schools. Recommendations are made after a case history has been prepared. Often a short rest from too strenuous outside activities is sufficient to arrest symptoms of the disease.

Two important highway improvement contracts, aggregating nearly $500,000, were awarded by the state department of public works. On his bid of $272,648, J. F. Knapp of Oakland was given the contract for paving seven miles in San Luis Obispo County. This project is another step in bringing the important coast route between Los Angeles and San Francisco to modern standards of construction. The Cornwall Construction Company, Santa Barbara, was awarded contracts for paving four miles in Santa Barbara County, between Zaca and Wigmore, at a cost of $153,239.

Permission was granted by the Railroad Commision to the Southern Pacific Company to construct a spur track at grade across the state highway and county road in the town of Chowchilla, Madera County.

More than $500,000 will be spent in the Madera district during 1930 by the San Joaquin Light and Power Corporation, according to J. E. Barrett, district manager. The company will spend $125,615 for new lines to serve new ranches and busines concerns, and a total sum of $581,981 will be expended in expansion, operations and improvements, Barrett said.

SANDY COULD SEE A SILVER LINING

(© by D. J. Walsh.)

FROM the little shanty in the middle of his melon patch, Sandy Clay watched the black clouds rolling down from the northwest.

"Nobody'd stop to steal melons in the face of a storm like that," he mused. Then he started for the corn field, a short cut for home.

Five minutes later he emerged, limping onto the porch and dropping into an old rocking chair, to recover his breath. Mrs. Clay and the two children were peering anxiously from the outside cellarway.

"Come out!" he commanded in a cheery voice. "It's no cyclone. Too late in the season. Anyhow, you never see twisters from clouds that reach clear across the sky like that."

"No," retorted Mrs. Clay, somewhat reassured but still apprehensive, "and you never heard of a stray shot from a hunter's rifle hitting you in the foot and laying you up for several weeks—till it did."

"There, now," said Sandy, "it might have been worse. Get into the house and we'll shut the door—it's safer. Here comes the overture."

The overture included howling winds driving sheets of rain in all directions while vivid lightning cut the blackness. Then came an ominous lull. A sharp click and a blue flash, instantly followed by an earth-jarring crash, started the children crying.

"There, now," said Sandy. "Nobody's hurt—and it might have been worse."

"Listen!" cried Mrs. Clay. "Worse is coming—hail!"

In five minutes all was over. Even the ground was still white with frozen pellets, the sun was breaking through the clouds and a beautiful rainbow formed the proscenium arch set with financial tragedy for Sandy Clay.

A neighbor, driving by, paused at the gate. "Well, Sandy," he shouted, "your melon vines are pounded out of sight and your corn here is shredded, but the hail never touched your long forty in the lower bottom. The storm was just playing out when it reached there."

"Good!" exclaimed Sandy. "That lower forty is good for seventy bushels of corn to the acre, so it might have been worse. Guess I'll hitch up and drive round a bit—it's too muddy for the old car."

A few minutes later Sandy had returned from the stable and stood facing his family with an odd expression. "Well?" queried Mrs. Clay.

"It might have been worse," replied Sandy. "That crack of lightning might have burned the barn, but—we haven't any team now. I—I guess I'll walk over and take a look at the bottom forty while—while you're getting supper."

In three-quarters of an hour he returned. The family ate their supper in silence till near the close, when Mrs. Clay spoke: "I thought I heard a roaring sound. Is it another storm?"

"No," said Sandy, pushing back from the table, "but the river is booming. Maybe also the noise of the work trains coming with trainloads of stone and steel rails, to hold down the bridge and the long trestle. They've got wire reports from up river, and they think the big fill across the bottom is sure to go."

Mrs. Clay eyed her husband sharply and then, at sight of his wry grin, burst into a hysterical laugh and exclaimed: "Go on! Tell me the south forty is a total loss, and don't forget to explain that it might have been worse!"

"It might," replied Sandy, gathering the children in his arms. "We've got Bud and Sis yet, with all their lives except five or six years before 'em and—and the mortgage on the farm isn't due till next month."

"And maybe by that time your foot will be well enough to walk when we start tramping," said Mrs. Clay, still laughing back the tears, "and maybe by then you'll have learned the folly of throwing up a good position for that of the glad, free and independent life of the jolly husbandman."

"When one's clear down," replied Sandy, "there's only one direction remaining—straight up. Now we'll have no horse feed to buy, no melon guards to hire, no corneribs to build and—and so forth."

The river continued to rise until all former high water records were broken. The railroad fill and the trestle across the valley were swept away. The bridge, undermined, fell into the main channel, and the temporary accumulation of drift threw the force of the raging current lengthwise across the long forty, sweeping away the black loam as well as the corn, and leaving channels and pits twenty feet deep in the variegated subsoil.

One evening, a week afterward, Sandy returned from what he had facetiously termed the daily exploration of the basement of his bottom forty. "Do you know," he said to Mrs. Clay, "that by some strange quirk of the glacial drift, I happen to have the only gravel pit of any magnitude in this part of the state? There's enough to gravel all the highways in four counties—and hail can't riddle the crop. Get me a pillow and blanket, for I'm going to camp out there tonight—"

"Sandy Clay, you needn't tell me that gravel is so precious that you'll have to guard it like a melon patch!" Mrs. Clay's voice showed signs of strained patience, as she continued: "Has the hot sun on that wet ground filled you full of malaria and affected your head?"

"Not so much that I don't know I've found one of the largest and best preserved skeletons of the ancient mastodon ever brought to light. I had Professor Dean of the university on the phone today. He agrees with me, that such a fine specimen should bring a high figure. He's coming tomorrow. Meantime, I'm taking no chances of some other person having seen the find before I saw it.

"And the railroad company wants to buy the land. They'll give me a year to remove the gravel, then with a little dredging they'll change the course of the river to run through the long forty, cutting out the troublesome bend. They will relocate their track across the valley, bringing a bridge across the new channel before diverting the waters, so you see it might have been—"

Mrs. Clay interrupted: "How much is that washed-out forty, that I advised you not to buy, going to bring—bones, gravel and all?"

"It should net $20,000 or more," replied Sandy. "And by the way, Professor Dean said I could have my old position back within the year, at a substantial increase in salary, as there is to be a number of changes in the faculty, and—"

"Are to be Prof. Sandford Clay. If you are going back to the university, you'll have to commence polishing your language."

Professor Clay was giving his erstwhile lame foot the benefit of a few setting-up exercises as he replied:

"That advice might have been worse."

Won Fame in Many Lines

William De Morgan, artist and novelist, was born in London on November 16, 1839. Educated at University college and the Academy schools, he became a member of the circle which gathered around Rossetti, William Morris and Burne-Jones, and experimented in various forms of decorative art. He set up a kiln, discovered some of the secrets of the old potters, and formed a firm to develop the manufacture of tiles and pottery on a commercial scale. Many fine examples of his work are in the ceramic galleries of the Victoria and Albert museum, London. In 1905, when he was over sixty-five, he retired from business and began his successful career as a novelist. "Joseph Vance," fragments of which had been rescued from destruction by his wife, appeared in 1906. He died in London of trench fever on January 15, 1917.

To Enjoy Human Nature

The wisest as well as the most generous form of humanity is that which is ready to accept people much as they are. It never has a watchful eye on their edification. Rather it watches to see what amusing characteristic or lovable quality it may discover and admire. It gives ample elbow room for all the differences which make human nature the baffling, interesting and inspiring thing it is.—Exchange.

In Jefferson's Honor

The Jefferson Memorial foundation was formed April 13, 1923, on the one hundred and eightieth anniversary of Thomas Jefferson's birth. It has acquired Jefferson's home, Monticello, and is devoting its efforts to its upkeep and restoration.

Twice as Much Surface

Mrs. Lastery—Your prices are getting awfully high. You're charging twice as much for cleaning this pair of gloves as I paid for cleaning a dinner gown last week.

The Clerk—Yes'm. Y'see, there's two gloves.

Spoiling the Metaphor

Mr. Oldsport—Do you doubt my love? Look in my eyes and read it there. The eyes are the windows of the soul.

Miss Goldentide—Windows of the soul! That's so. Your eyes do look awfully glassy.

Delight in Occupation

One of the desirable conditions in any walk of life is lots to do. That paraphrase of the name of Llef the Lucky, into Loaf the Lucky, isn't so. There's no luck in idleness.—St. Louis Globe-Democrat.

How Squirrel Helps to Promote Forest Growth

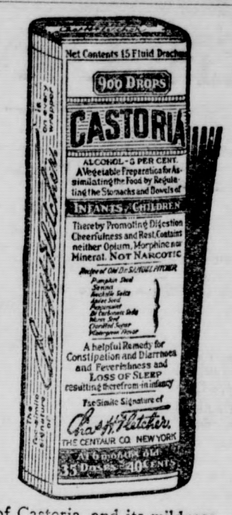
All trees, you know, grow from seeds which other trees of the same kind bear. These may be real seeds, or they may be fruit with seeds inside, or nuts, which are a form of seed.

Now, squirrels eat nuts, acorns, berries and other forms of seeds, and they store them away for winter use by burying them in the ground. In the autumn when the nuts are ripe, the squirrel frequently climbs to the end of the limb of a tree, where he cuts off the nuts with his teeth and lets them drop to the ground. After cutting off a lot of them, he descends to the ground, finds a nut, carries it in his mouth until he finds a place that suits his fancy and there digs a hole three or four inches deep and large enough to hold his treasure.

Having buried one nut he goes and gets another and repeats the process. He will continue doing this for several hours at a time if he is not disturbed, and he will do it every day as long as the weather is fine and the nuts are plentiful. Eventually he has buried a lot of nuts, and then he forgets where he has put them!

During very cold weather the squirrel sleeps, but when a sunny winter day comes along he wakes up and is hungry. So he climbs out of his snug nest and goes down to the ground to find some nuts to eat, hunting until he finds some of those he buried several months before. But he buries many more nuts than he can use during the winter and many of these are left right where he puts them, where they start to grow, continuing as long as they are not destroyed by animals or in some other way. These little trees form the young growth of the forest.

Thus each year these animals help to renew the growth of trees, which replace those destroyed by accident or by enemies. It is because of them that the forest seems to remain just about the same all the time, unless it is cut down by men or razed by fire, and if there were no squirrels the forests would be much different from what they are.—Washington Star.



If Baby has COLIC

A cry in the night may be the first warning that Baby has colic. No cause for alarm if Castoria is handy! This pure vegetable preparation brings quick comfort, and can never do the slightest harm. Always keep a bottle in the house. It is the safe and sensible thing when children are ailing. Whether it's the stomach, or the little bowels; colic or constipation; or diarrhea. When tiny tongues are coated, or the breath is bad. Whenever there's need of gentle regulation. Children love the taste of Castoria, and its mildness makes it suitable for the tiniest infant, and for frequent use.

And a more liberal dose of Castoria is always better for growing children than some needlessly strong medicine meant only for adult use. Genuine Castoria always has Chas. H. Fletcher's signature on the wrapper. Prescribed by doctors!

Made at School

A little miss, age seven, and in the second grade, was relating to her father the happenings of the day at school and said:

"Daddy we made 'cock-eyed Susans' at school today."

Roasted or Stewed

Mr. Knagg—I'm going to bring a friend home for dinner this evening.

His Wife—It's a good thing you're going to bring something home for dinner. There isn't a thing in the house to eat.

Needless Pain!

People are often too patient with pain. Suffering when there is no need to suffer. Shopping with a head that throbs. Working though they ache all over.

And Bayer Aspirin would bring immediate relief!

The best time to take Bayer Aspirin is the moment you first feel the pain. Why postpone relief until the pain has reached its height? Why hesitate to take anything so harmless?

Read the proven directions for checking colds, easing a sore throat; relieving headaches and the pains of neuralgia, neuritis, rheumatism, etc.

You can always count on its quick comfort. But if pain is of frequent recurrence see a doctor as to its cause.

MENLO NOTES

Oscar Youngquist, the former local sign painter, passed away at the Community Hospital last Sunday evening, following a long illness. The interment took place at Alta Mesa cemetery on Tuesday. The deceased had lived in Menlo Park for the past eight years. He was a skillful sign painter, one of the best in the State. He was a native of Sweden, aged 72 years.

Those wishing to vote at the forthcoming city election, on April 14, will have to be register by March 14. The register will close on that date. Those desiring to become candidates for offices will have to file their nomination papers by noon of March 25. By present indications there will be an array of candidates for the local offices.

A Jewish synagogue is soon to be erected in Stanford Park at considerable cost for, the worship of Jewish people residing here and at Palo Alto. The Brown property near the creek has been purchased for that purpose.

An old mantle piece laying in repose in the storehouse of Patrick Kearney for many years revealed an interesting story Tuesday when the owner began chopping it for fire wood. In a crevice, carefully tucked away, was a faded piece of paper containing the tale. "This mantle piece," began the epistle, "was built by convict labor at San Quentin in 1885 by me, Edward Charleston, sent to San Quentin in 1881 for burglary to serve a sentence of ten years. I was then 25 years old. I want it to be known that I constructed this piece of furniture while a convict." The writing was in a bold hand. The paper was signed by Edward Charleston and was written with a lead pencil. If Charleston is living, he is 74 years old. Mr. Kearney is keeping the script as a precious souvenir.

The city council met Tuesday evening, a full membership being present.

J. J. Harcom, building inspector, presented his report for the month, showing that the sum of $94.16 had been collected for building permits.

W. A. Boggess, a member of the planning commission, resigned for the reason that he is in Ohio, and will remain there for some time. The resignation was accepted.

The claim of the Peninsula Material Company was allowed after a satisfactory explanation was made in communication to the council.

A lengthy communication was read from Stanford Park Association suggesting that the resolution calling for street improvements in that locality be rescinded. The Association volunteered to assist the council in securing the improvements required by the property owners. The communication was filed.

F. J. Furnivall again in a letter asked the council to explain where the liquor and narcotics confiscated by the police department were stored. He desired to know if the liquor went down the sewers or down the throats of the thirsty. Chief Furman explained to the council that the liquor was all destroyed and that the narcotics were under lock and key awaiting instructions from the government as to their disposition.

Commissioner Walker reported that the state highway commission was repairing the sidewalk in front of the central school, and would defray all the expenses. Walker also reported that he had communicated with W. Hoag, head of the Menlo Realty Co., owing property along the creek, to ascertain if the land fronting on the stream could not be given to the city for a park. Hoag thought if $1000 was offered the company it might be accepted. No action was taken on the report.

The clerk was instructed, at the suggestion of Walker, to communicate with the sanitary board, urging that a new sewer be constructed in the Hermosa tract to run from Santa Cruz avenue to Middle avenue.

The matter of a definite plan for building houses on the state highway brought out quite a warm discussion between Walker and the building inspector, Harcom. The former stated that the future would bring trouble to the council unless some definite system was adopted. He referred to the Fat Boy building going up on Live Oak avenue. He thought the inspector should have consulted the council before granting the permit. Harcom replied heatedly that the temporary ordinance was inoperative, and that he had no other course to follow than to grant the permit. Chairman Ellis said the building would be only temporary, as the widening of the highway would necessitate the removal of the structure. The council agreed to visit the scene of the building on Thursday.

No action was taken on the Gurnsey building permit. The following election of officers were appointed for the city election on April 14: Louisa Aabel, inspector, C. H. Holmes, judge, Zilpha L. Morris, Jessie A. Snover and Grace E. Cooper, clerks.

Chinese Widow in Suit for Damages

Quon Wo's widow has brought a suit in the superior court of San Francisco against the owner of a big building there to recover the sum of $50,000 for the loss of her husband who fell down an elevator shaft. The complaint alleges that the owner of the building was negligent in not having a warning sign elevator that was partially closed at the time of the accident.

Watch Your Chicken Roosts!

The hen roost of Mrs. J. I. Aabel was robbed of eleven fine fat hens late Sunday evening. The culprit escaped with his loot late Sunday night. The chickens were all prize winners and Mrs. Aabel was getting them in trim to exhibit them to Easter friends she expects next month.

Recalls Former Pupil Now Aspiring to Prize Fight Champion

Mrs. Madge Ryan, wife of City Treasurer John Ryan, was a teacher in the Edison Technical High School of Fresno some years ago and among her pupils was Young Corbett, the youngster who won the big fight in San Francisco last Wednesday and who is aspiring to be the champion, in his class of the world. He is the son of a poor Italian immigrant family that came to Fresno some years ago. Mrs. Ryan speaks of the lad as being clever, clean, wholesome boy with ambition to get ahead in the world. He had no bad habits. For some time he was connected with the Fresno Republican and is a writer of some ability. Mrs. Ryan, naturally, was glad to see the boy win. Corbett is an assumed name.

VOICE TRAVELS 15,000 MILES IN AUSTRALIA TALK

New York Telephone Men Chat by Radio With Group of Sydney Officials

When officials of the American Telephone and Telegraph Company in New York City exchanged greetings with Australian telephone officials in Sydney recently, in a demonstration of the practicability of connecting the transatlantic telephone channel with one of the new short wave radio telephone channels between Great Britain and Australia, the voices of the speakers were carried a total distance of 15,000 miles.

From New York the messages passed over wire lines to the short wave transmitting center which is located at Lawrenceville, N. J. Thence they were sent by radio to the short wave receiving station of the British General Post Office at Baldock, near London, England, and thence by wire via London to the British Government's transmitting station at Rugby, England. Again radio served as the carrier to the receiving station of Amalgamated Wireless of Australia, near Sydney. The return path was again to Baldock from Australia, but on reaching Baldock the messages came via Rugby to the Bell System's short wave receiving station at Netcong, N. J.

The demonstrations were regarded as entirely satisfactory, and it is an interesting fact that while actually it requires only a fraction of a second to send such a message from New York to Australia over 15,000 miles by a short wave system of transmission interconnecting the wires of the United States and Australia, such a message may not reach its destination until the next day. This paradoxical statement is due to the fact that when it is four o'clock in New York City, the clocks in Sydney, Australia, read seven o'clock the next morning.

Redwood City Girl Handles $1,000,000 Each Working Day

The San Francisco News, in a recent issue, had the following interesting article concerning a well known Redwood City girl, Miss Camilla Stafford, daughter of City Councilman and Mrs. D. A. Staford.

BY LOUISE LANDIS

A million dollars a day slips through her fingers—and still Camilla Stafford doesn't look as if she had extravagant tastes.

The quiet - smiling, calm - spoken girl who is the cashier of Strassburger & Co., San Francisco brokers, doesn't get fussed when mere sums like $100,000 are passed over her desk. It's all part of the day's work to Miss Stafford.

She and her staff of five assistants handle all the securities and cash which passes on and off the brokerage firm's books daily. On heavy market days the total frequently amounts to more than $1,000,000, but Miss Stafford, small, capable and controlled, isn't impressed.

Just Like Apples

"It just doesn't seem like real money," she confesses, when you ask her way. "Once you become used to thinking in large figures, you might just as well be dealing in potatoes or apples as dollars. Of course it is hard, sometimes, when you have just transferred $50,000 worth of bonds to somebody's name, to come down to earth and begin figuring on whether you can afford a new hat for $10 or not. But most of the time the huge amounts seem like symbols, not money."

Four members of Miss Stafford's department are men, but the girl who is their executive doesn't find that cause for amaze, either.

"I saw an article not long ago in which the writer, a woman, declared that no first-rate man would work under a woman, unless his job was just a temporary 'stop-gap' between him and starvation," she says.

Sex No Handicap

"She was all wrong, it seems to me. The men in my department are first-raters, and they realize, as I do, that sex has absolutely nothing to do with business. If a woman executive makes up her own mind that she will work with the men in her department, she will not have to cope with envy and dissatisfaction on their part. It is the bossy woman, who gloats over the fact that for the time being she is in a superior position to a man, who creates ill-feeling for feminine executives."

Like most of the other women who hold responsible positions in San Francisco's financial world, Miss Stafford is still working with the firm in which she started her business career. She entered Strassburger's employ as a clerk 10 years ago—and now—$1,000,000 a day!

"Remember, though, not more than half of it is cash!" she says solemnly—with a twinkle in her eye.

Society

The local delegation brought with them the giant Chinese dragon, which was used as part of the entertainment features of the national conclave.
